Empowerment Project

Handmade in the Kingdom of Eswatini

An empowerment company which focuses on providing employment opportunities for the rural and peri-urban women of Eswatini. Many of the women working for Amarasti are grand-mothers who, with the Aids crisis, are responsible for providing and assisting in the raising and education of their orphaned grandchildren. The casual wages they earn contributes to the uplifting of their families and puts much needed food on the table.

The company produces hand beaded and embroidered bags, purses, cushion covers and home ware. Our unique designs were the work of our founder who prepared each design carefully, excitedly and with joy.

This empowerment project employs over 30 rural women helping them to provide for their extended families and children.
